

Butler Traditional High School
Volume 62, Issue 5
Friday, January 20th, 2017

The Ink Spot

New Year's Resolutions BY MAGGIE EMBERTON

2017 is here and it's the start of something new for some people. This is the time of year when students begin to think of ways to either better themselves or situations to start fresh with the New Year. I'm sure you've all seen the "new year, new me" posts on social media this year, but have you really put thought into what people are meaning when they say it? Not everyone wants to completely change themselves, however, some plan to improve themselves or certain situations. I got the chance to find out some unique New Year's resolutions of students here at Butler.

One New Year's resolution that could be considered unique and possibly useful was Whitney Hedgecock's, "My New Year's resolution is to work on bettering my relationship with God and to not stress as much". Whitney proceeded to talk about how she thinks bettering her relationship with God will also help her in other ways as well. Creating a New Year's resolution of bettering a relationship with anyone who you might feel the need to is a great way to start the year, who knows where it may lead you.

Furthermore, a lot of people's New Year's resolutions involve losing weight or eating healthier. However, Brendan Pham's seems to be a little more than just that. Brendan stated "I made a personal preference of going to the gym about a month ago and my new year's resolution was to just keep going and not have any excuses. Now I enjoy it and it's a routine" Like Brendan, not all New Year resolutions are actually "new", some people are just content with how the previous year went and want to continue onto the new year the same way.

In addition, some people begin new things during the year and want to carry those onto the New Year because they may have discovered they enjoy it that much. A great example is what senior, Jayme Clark, said "I'd like to continue to be more giving this year, it's just a great way to stay positive and spread happiness." Having a New Year's resolution like that is inspiring and will hopefully only bring good things!

In the long run, it is a brand new year and we can all start off with a clean slate. 2016 is over and the new year is full of new opportunities and exciting beginnings. It is never too late to start your own resolution, so don't think you can't start now. For those of you that are content with how last year went, keep it up! For all you bears and Bearettes good luck and Happy New Year!

Senior, Jayme Clark

Senior, Whitney Hedgecock

Senior, Brendan Pham

The End of the Journey BY TASIA JEFFRIES

Winter break is over and the seniors are now rolling downhill towards graduation. It is officially the year 2017 and the end is almost here. Because the class of 2017 is almost done with its journey, we should hear a little about the wonderful experience. Here are the details of the journeys of a pair of best friends, Mariel Liggin and ShiAnn Briscoe.

Senior year often means stepping out and dipping your toes in new found freedom and responsibilities. If you choose to challenge yourself and take these new “grown up” tasks head on, you may find your first steps into becoming independent can be very stressful. This is true for both Mariel and ShiAnn. They both said the start of the year was very hectic because of working, challenging classes, and applying for colleges. The key to figuring out how to make it through the year is learning how to manage your time, which Mariel says she quickly learned to do in the first few weeks.

Although senior year can seem crazy and chaotic, it is full of fun and great memories. ShiAnn, when asked what her favorite memories of senior year are so far, said that her favorite memories are “enjoying the football pep rally, going on the bear walk, and taking the senior class pictures”. Mariel agreed to this statement and added, “I cherish these last moments with all my friends whether they are cheering on the side with me or playing in the games”. These moments, along with the year, go by so fast so remember to enjoy them to the fullest extent!

Although it may feel as though the year is basically over and senioritis is starting to

To the left:
ShiAnn Briscoe
ready for Junior Prom, taken by her sister,
Trayetta Ralston.

To the left:
Mariel Liggin
senior drape,
photo taken by CS
Photography.

“I cherish these last moments with my friends...”

really kick in for a lot of the senior class, there are still a lot of things to look forward to. Mariel and ShiAnn are really excited about some upcoming events. Mariel says she is really excited to participate in the senior activities, and making the school a better place. ShiAnn added that she was looking forward to graduation and finding out how much scholarship money she received. The duo agreed on the topics of prom and the second semester of senior year, saying they “couldn’t wait for prom and that they want and plan to finish senior year up strong with good grades”.

The high school experience as a whole is a rollercoaster ride. It is full of ups and downs, hard times, great memories, and everlasting friendships. You find out who you are and what you want to do in life and once you do, you start to put your plan into action during senior year. Mariel and ShiAnn are only two people in the class of 2017 but they are prime examples of seniors who are making the most out of their senior year.

Above: Mariel Liggin (left) and ShiAnn Briscoe (right)
enjoying themselves at a paint party, taken by instructor.

New Butler JROTC Instructor BY SHAWN CORDER

This year we have a new instructor for our JROTC program. Sgt. First class Brundidge was selected to be another one high speed NCO (non-commission officer) for the JROTC program. Before the interview I asked if he could tell me a little bit about himself, he is originally from England, as he grew up he say that the military right career to pursue because he comes from a strong military background. He's says that he originally only wanted to do five years but he ended up doing twenty. He loves hiking and has a passion for history. Brundidge say that he would not mind giving classes on geography and mapping. Sgt. Brundidge also stated that he is married and has two wonderful children. An eight year old girl and a three year old boy.

While interviewing Sgt. Brundidge I asked him if he was enjoying Butler so far. He replied by saying that he think that the school is great and that we as students add a positive environment to the school. He also say that he will enjoy bringing his own take on leadership and will definitely be helping out with the special teams like raider and color guard, with in the JROTC program.

Interview with Sgt. First class Brundidge:

Q: How many years did you serve in the military?

A: I served 20 years in the military. And my MOS was MP (military police)

Q: What did you do in the military?

A: Physical security, anti termism, basic patrol officer and a civilian liaison; I was also a drill sergeant.

Q: What do you think hope to bring to our JROTC program?

A: I would love to teach about geography and navigations (orienteering)

Q: Do you like Butler so far?

A: Well, for me only being here for two days I find to like the environment the school gives, I had grandparents who lived down here so I know the area pretty well.

Q: What was it like growing up and what made you want to peruse a career in the military?

A: Well my father is from America but he moved to England where he met my mother. So growing up I mostly lived in England. What made me want to pursue a career in the military was me coming from a military background and I felt like it was the right thing to do at the time.

Q: What is your teaching approaches?

A: My teaching approach leans more toward history. I Love history and have always had a passion for history and would love to teach it.

Q: What has life been like from transitioning from military to civilian career?

A: Well since I have only been out for four days, I have been catching up on college. I have knocked out almost 30 semester hours.

Make sure to say hello and welcome Sgt. First class Brundidge to the Butler Bear family!

Top picture Sgt. Brundidge with his lovely wife and two kids.

Above: Sgt. Brundidge posing at attention in his class A uniform.

Creative Writing BY AMANDA MILLS

As the second semester is here, it is that time for students to start scheduling for classes next year. Upperclassmen have the opportunity to pick electives that best fit their interests. Butler offers many electives and these electives are a great way for students to experience what it is like to choose their own classes according to their interests. One elective is creative writing. Creative writing is a class that allows students to dig deeper into writing. This class exposes students to different types of writing to create their own works. For many, this class is a way to get out of their comfort zone and take their writing to another level.

Mrs. Lynch, freshmen English teacher, has taught this class for three years now. She is a well-known teacher who is loved by many here at Butler. Lynch says this class is a different kind of writing than your normal English class, it is personal and there is more freedom. Not only does Lynch teach, but also she leads National Honors Society and goes the extra mile to help around the school.

Many of the seniors taking this class enjoy it. Senior, Mikayla Rivera, used to read and write when she was younger and thought this class would be a great opportunity to get back into it. Rivera says this class keeps you thinking about real life situations. Senior, Riyan Mitchell, says the class is interesting and highly recommends it to anyone who is having trouble picking electives.

The goal of creative writing is to help students become better writers. You do not have to be an expert to take this class. This class exposes students to different types of writing such as poetry, fiction, nonfiction, short stories, and more. There are many exciting projects throughout the year for students to do. For example, the students this year had the opportunity to write a children's book of their choice and for many it was their favorite project of the year. For most students, it was more than just a project. Many would give their books to family members and friends as Christmas presents. Another project the students took on was writing their own song! Many found this challenging, but in the end, they said it was well worth it.

There are many benefits to taking this class such as how and where to start writing, how to overcome writers block, and developing your imagination. You can use your own creativity to create something meaningful. Creative writers have the gift to inspire someone, to make someone laugh, to make someone cry, and to make someone think.

Below, are samples from a couple senior's writing:

ABOVE: Mrs. Lynch

Excerpt - Scary Story

by Lexi Williams

"She held her head up and strode through the discrete building. I still hesitated for a moment. She turned around and held out her hand, looking at me sincerely but daring. I let her lead me through the rusted rails of the doorway. Once we were inside, she pulls flashlights and an EMF machine out of her backpack, which was heavy with supplies. We proceed cautiously down a barren hallway; I tremble as she acts as my guide through the sanitarium."

Excerpt - Modeled by William Carlos

Williams

by Riyan Mitchell

*"So much depends upon his strong fatherly figure with a dose of funny
besides his serious tone."*

Ink Squad BY DEEDEE WHETSTONE

It is the time of the year that sets the path for the upcoming school year. Scheduling is taking place currently and a lot of students are struggling to decide which electives they would like to take. If you're someone who likes to write or be on camera then Ink Spot is the right elective for you.

Ink Spot is the school newspaper and also the schools news broadcast, Inside the Den. There's so much more to Ink Spot than just writing and smiling in front of a camera. Every six weeks the Ink Spot staff releases one school newspaper, and one or two news broadcasts. The work put into these products takes time, but is worth it when everyone recognizes you around school. With the paper and the broadcast you get to choose any topic you would like, as long as it is Butler related and positive. You have the opportunity to interview people and they get really excited about it.

Ink Spot isn't all work and no play though. The Ink Spot staff often plans fun activities like having the summer lunch at Mike Linings, going to the fair together and going to haunted houses together. Also, during the week of midterms, all of the members of Ink Spot participate in secret Santa and make a dish for our Christmas party. When you think about Ink Spot it's like a family. They're always there for you no matter what, they joke around like a family and they are all just comfortable around each other. It is a great feelings.

Ink Spot is a journalism elective. Journalism is a huge work force in our society today, going out there in the world, gathering information and bringing it back to present and to get paid for it, that sounds amazing. Journalism is a very exciting job, whether it be writing for New York Times or talking in front of the camera on ESPN. It's a fun job and it pays well!

When you go to submit your schedule, be sure to look into applying for the Ink Spot staff! It will be a decision that you will be glad you made.

Ink Spot smiling with their present's at their Christmas Party. Taken by Ms. McBride..

Ink Spot staff at Mike Linning's., on the walking trail. Taken by Ms. McBride.

Ink Spot members, Amanda, Alley, Maddie, DeeDee, Haley and Brittany, posing outside of the Old Spaghetti Factory, for DeeDee's Birthday Dinner. Taken by Elias Thompson.

Left picture taken by a kind stranger at the Kentucky State Fair. [Left to Right] LaTrice, Hailey, Tasia, Maddie, DeeDee, Shawn, Brooke and Maggie.

Ink Spot staff posing during their annual Christmas party. Ink Spot 2016-2017 pictured above. [top left to right] DeeDee Whetstone, Brooklynn Pinto, Shaun Corder, Latrice Harville, Tasia Jeffries, Tatum Thompson, Maddie Biddle, Alley Murphy, Amanda Mills, Brittany Wilson. [bttom left to right] Haley Bennett, Maggie Emberton, Hailey Whitmer.

Peer Tutoring BY ALLY MURPHY

Peer tutoring is a class you can take your senior year where you get to help in a special education class. You'll get to help in all three of the classes with Mrs. Foley, Ms. Payton, and Ms. Pfeister. Every two six weeks you'll switch classes so you can form a relationship with the students and teachers.

While in the classroom you'll help them with their classwork or even play a game with some of the students. Peer tutoring is my favorite class this year. I have formed so many friendships with the students. The students love having peer tutors in class with them. If you're a junior and you're interested about taking this class next year, all you have to do is fill out an application around the spring time. Whenever you schedule your classes for next year with Mrs. Davis the applications will be laying on a table and you can grab one. I highly recommend taking this class next year it's an awesome experience.

I had the chance to interview some of the students and I asked them "What is your favorite part about having peer tutors in your class?"

Kaleb Dieckman: "I think they're awesome and I like to hang out and spend time with them."

Lance Davis: "They're nice and friendly to me."

Jocelyn Wright: "They're funny and they go to the mall with my class."

Travis Harper: "I love hanging out with them and seeing the cool tricks they can do."

Jamia Collins: "They always help me with my work and they're always super nice to me."

Senior Robert Wagner helping Senior Jamia Collins with her classwork.

Freshman Kaleb Dieckman focusing on his project.

Senior Robert Wagner helping Junior Brenton Hogan on his assignment.

Freshman Lance Davis showing off his project.

The Greatest Wealth Is Health BY HAILEY WHITMER

There are several classes here at Butler that we have to take. There are classes that are a requirement to graduate. Don't you ever just wish you could choose your own classes without it being a requirement? Well you can. Going into your senior year, you are allowed to choose classes called electives, which are classes that you can take just for the pure enjoyment of them. Although there are a lot of them and I could go on for days about them, I am going to share two classes that seem to be very popular on scheduling sheets.

Women's Health

The Women's Health class here at Butler has been going on for about 6 or so years now. It is taught by an amazing person that most of you all know, Ms. Wurst. She got this as a class to promote not only physical health, but mental health as well. I, myself, am in this class and am beyond grateful that I took this class. Ms. Wurst teaches us life lessons that we will keep and cherish with us all throughout our lives along with how to eat right, exercise, and to keep a healthy mindset.

I spoke to a few students from this class and here is what they had to say about it.

Krista Buchanan said, "The reason I took this class is because I have been on a diet for a while trying to lose weight and I thought this class might help me on what type of foods I should be eating and what type of exercises might help me the most."

Macie Sidebottom said, "I took this class because I wanted to be in a class with all girls with problems that I could relate to so that we could help each other overcome them together. I like this class because it has a close, nonjudgmental atmosphere to where we can open up to each other and talk about anything. I love everyone in this class because we are basically like sisters because we go through things and help each other and have really become a family."

Taylor Farlow said, "As a freshman I have always wanted to take Ms. Wurst's senior girls health class. I have been a bigger girl for most of my teenage and childhood years, before being in that class I initially wanted to take it for the work out portion to help slim me down. However, after spending a semester I have realized how much you truly get from that class and from Ms. Wurst. She has become a safe haven for me and someone to go to when in need of help. The classroom environment has taught me about life lessons and other good things to know when it came to being a young woman about to venture off into the college life. Being healthy is more than going to the gym and exercising, to be healthy it takes a whole range of emotional, spiritual, physical, and mental aspects into play. For any freshman or underclassman, this class has been a blessing and you should truly try your hardest to get into it so that you can find yourself and as well form a family with others around you."

They are only a select few of an incredible group of young ladies that are lucky enough to be in this class. I believe this class has helped several people with their problems whatever they may be. This is a class where a group of girls come together to help one another be healthier not only in the physical aspect of it, but more importantly the mental aspect of it. Every one of these ladies in this class can say how this class has helped them in some way or another and you underclassman can be a part of this class to if you want to.

"We learn about what we care about"

To the left are seniors Michael Bishop and Cade Blevins.

"Close, nonjudgmental atmosphere"

*(left to right)
Taylor Farlow,
Macie Sidebottom,
and Krista Buchanan.*

Men's Health

Now don't think we forgot about the boys. There is a Men's Health class as well taught by Mr. Cullen. This class has only been around for a couple of years, but seems to be in the minds of many. It is also a class to help with the well-being of our students and although I am a girl and I know nothing of what they do in this class, I spoke with a couple of the students in this class and here is what they had to say about the class.

Michael Bishop said, "I decided to join this class because I wanted to learn more about health and sports. We usually have class discussions daily besides the days we go out and play sports or go to the weight room. I believe people should take this class because it helps further your learning in health and physical activity."

Cade Blevins said, "I took men's health because it is a class that has a lot of discussion and little writing. We do interesting real-life topics. It's also an active class and we do many activities and sports. You should take this class if you want to learn what it is like to be on your own. We learn how to deal with finances and other important topics. This class is kind of close to P.E. If you are an active person then you should take this class. I like this class because it is an easy class. We have a lot of fun and Mr. Cullen lets us be creative. We decide some of the topics that we talk about so that we can learn about what we care about."

Although girls tend to talk more sometimes about deeper issues, the men's health class can still be a great class for young men to take. This class will give guys a chance to open up to their friends and maybe get feedback or advice about things they don't want everyone to know about. Also, there is a good chance that you will find out what games are playing when, who won, and who played the best because guys tend to know anything and everything about sports.

Anyone who would like to join these classes can and should, but there is a few simple things that you have to know first. First off, you have to be a senior. Next, there is an application that you have to fill out to see if the teachers sees you fit for the class. Then the last thing is to remember to be courteous of others and their feelings, let them know you are there, and the most important is to have fun!

Juan Price BY LATRICE HARVILLE

You might have seen him in the hallway or have heard his unique laugh but Juan Price is no stranger around Butler Traditional High School. He is known from the principal staff all the way down to the freshman class. His outgoing personality is what makes him stand out to everyone, I had the opportunity to sit down and have the inside look of Juan.

While talking to Juan it was easy to tell that he has a passion for his community and wants to give back. He mentioned that he wanted to give people opportunities because someone was nice enough to give him a shot. In ten years Juan would like to develop a Men's of Quality Program and pursue his dream to coach high school football. Football plays a huge role in Juan's life, it all started by his father who inspired him to continue the legacy at the age of nine years old. His father is the reason why he wears the #54 and the position he plays. Juan started out playing the position of wide receiver but eventually changed to quarterback. His biggest role model in the league is Nate Solder who plays tackle for the New England Patriots. His role model outside of sports would be Orlando Brown because of his unique ways.

Something that you may not know about Juan Price is that he enjoys Star Wars, and even though Juan comes across as the "tough" type, deep down inside he is a big teddy bear that likes to wear Timberland boots with durags. Also he likes the color lavender because of the scent, and thinks it is a very unique color.

Looking around the city of Louisville Juan said something he wants to see differently in his community is less young people being homeless when there is so much funds going to things that is less important. He wants more people to have better opportunities for themselves and for everyone to be successful.

If you follow Juan on social media you will notice that he is very passionate about the game NBA 2K. If you are unfamiliar with the video game, it is a game designed to be a live reenactor of professional basketball. Something that Juan does not play about is the insect spider. Juan mentioned that spiders is his biggest fears and it does not matter how big or small the spider is, they are all scary.

What makes Juan Price "HIM" would have to be the "waterbed" aka his gut. It is something Juan is not ashamed of and loves to show it off. It is something that is a part of him and would not be who he is without it.

Reading this article you have discovered some new things that you may not have known before. As you can see he is very friendly and passionate about sports and a change in his community. Next time you see him in the hallway be sure to say HI!

"I just want to make a difference in my community!"

Above: Juan Price (picture taken by his mother)

Right: Juan Price (photo taken by Xavion Bethel)

Dress For Success BY HALEY BENNETT

It's almost time to get ready for that one special night when girls in colorful gowns and boys in ill-fitting tuxedos pose awkwardly for photos that you will cherish for the rest of their lives. Prom is probably the most important dance in high school. This is one night that hundreds of juniors and seniors look forward to all year long. Around the end of Christmas, many people start going into a prom frenzy. What colors are you choosing? How will you wear your hair and makeup? Who's going to be your date? For the ladies, the biggest question is, which dress will you pick to wear?

Prom seems to be one of the only formal parties that teens go to in high school. This, of course, allows kids to splurge on that one special night. Dresses can cost up to $800 depending on what type of style it is and where you purchase it from. Although some can spend a lot on their prom, some cannot have such a large budget.

There are many shops within Louisville such as Regis Bridal and Prom, Little Miss Dress Up, David's Bridal and Prom, Sam Meyers, as well as many others that will provide you with great guidance to finding the right dress as well as staying calm throughout all the prom madness. If you don't wish to go to an actual prom shop, there are also consignment shops where you can get budget friendly gowns. For example, Twice as Nice Consignment shop.

There's also a lot of intimidation within these shops, you might be too scared to have all the attention on you when trying a dress on in the shop. A simple solution would be to buy a used dress from someone at school.

There are many girls who have previously gone to prom either last year or the year before at Butler who wish to sell their prom dresses. Although they have been worn already, the dresses are still quite beautiful. Buying a previously used dress not only allows you to save some money on your prom night, but it allows you to go to your prom looking fabulous.

There are many girls that go to Butler that are selling their beautiful dresses, but there are 5 seniors I was able to contact who wish to sell their dresses. If you wish to contact these girls about buying their wonderful dresses you can come to me during school and I can give you their personal information.

Junior Prom: April 28 @ Crown Plaza

Senior Prom: April 21 @ Derby Museum

Whitney Hedgecock, Senior

Haley Vittitoe, Senior

Haley Vittitoe, Senior

Prom!!

Sherri Stallard, Senior

Cassie Tinnell, Senior

Butler Reaching the Highest Altitude BY TATUM THOMPSON

Butler students are always looking for new ways to spend their free time out of the classroom. Whether it be spending time with friends, traveling, or making an extra buck on the side; students have days packed with other activities close to Butler. Jobs are one of the top extracurricular activities that students tend to choose and a lot of them stay close to home. This is the case with the new Altitude Trampoline Park. It is a worldwide activities center that caters to those who are searching for good family friendly fun. The Dixie Highway location is wrapping up all the loose ends and preparing for an opening that will be in the books. The company and staff are prepared to give customers “the ultimate fun center.” This will be the first trampoline park in close proximity to Butler and will be a spot for many Butler students to come, once it opens in early February. Some Butler students even had the opportunity to apply for jobs at the Dixie location, and were pleased to find that many of them will be working with familiar faces.

One of these students is Ryan Carman, a senior. When ask about his position he stated “I’m overly excited, I get to work with friends and have fun!” He is so happy to find a job that he can enjoy and see happy faces all around him. And even see people from school all at the same time he is getting paid. He doesn’t know exactly what his new found position is required to do, but he guesses that he either will be collecting money from the customers or supervising the trampolines to ensure the safety of all those participating in the jumping adventures. Carman couldn’t be more pleased to find out that he is working with many of his friends including Hayley Jacobs.

A senior, Hayley Jacobs, also had the chance to hold a job at Altitude. She has enjoyed her time in the past at trampoline parks just like Altitude so she is excited to have a position at a place she likes even on her free time, as much of it will be spent there. Jacobs stated “I’m excited to work around kids, and see if it is something that I would enjoy in my future!” Planning for the future is a big part of being a Butler student, and involving Altitude within that goal alongside Butler, will lead Jacobs to bigger places than she ever thought. Jacobs is thrilled for her first day at work, and cannot wait to see what help it provides for the future.

Altitude just might be the new hottest spot for Butler students. There is hope Butler students will attend Altitude and have the time of their lives. And if you find yourself in attendance to the park, stop by and see if you could find Carman and Jacobs, and give them a wave! After all they are all a part of the Butler family. The success of the trampoline park is based a lot on the workers there, so with that, Butler should be proud to have many hardworking individuals representing so close to a place we call home for four years.

Happy Jumping.!

Altitude Trampoline Park is a fun and safe place, and here pictured is what is offered at the park.

Pictured here is seniors, Hayley Jacobs and Ryan Carman, who are both working at Altitude Trampoline Park.

All other pictures from Google

LARGEST Trampoline Park... coming to the SOUTHSIDE!

Altitude Trampoline Park Information:

Address: 4420 Dixie Highway Louisville, KY, 40216

Hours: Mon– Thurs 10 a.m. to 9.p.m

Fri: 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Sat. 9a.m to 11 p.m.

Sun 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Phone Number: (502) 449-9952

Butler Bowling Team BY BROOKLYN PINTO

Here at Butler, our bowling team hasn't received enough recognition on how well they have been playing this year. They are ranked #1 in region 3 and have a record of 7-0! There are 3 boys with a bowling average of 200+: Michael Turner (229), Matthew Leslie (216), and Dylan Vaughn (208). One of our juniors here at Butler, Michael Turner, is #1 in the city of Louisville! One of our juniors here at Butler, Stephen Thompson is coach Thompson's son. I had the opportunity to interview him.

Stephen Thompson

Stephen has been bowling for about 6 years. Thompson started bowling because his father inspired him when he was a little boy. His dad has taught him everything that he knows about bowling and does everything he can to help him improve. Thompson's current average score is 189. His highest score ever is 279. He claims that he never gets tired of bowling; it's his passion. One of his favorite parts about bowling on a team is being competitive. One of his favorite memories is when they won a tournament. Thompson loves to bowl in his spare time. When he gets older, he wants to somehow combine bowling with his career in his spare time and become professional.

Michael Turner

Michael is #1 in the city of Louisville. He has worked very hard for that ranking. Before bowling for Butler, he bowled at Ken Bowl on a league. Ever since he was little, he has practiced multiple times to better himself. Bowling has always been his passion. Currently, his average score is 229. Turner is a huge inspiration for Butler's bowling team!

With Butler's bowling team being so awesome, of course they beat PRP! The Butler bowlers took a huge W over rival PRP at Dixie Bowl. The Bears won 6-1. The team score was 611. The high bowler was Michael Turner with a 233. Congratulations!

Overall, Butler's bowling team has done an outstanding job and we couldn't be more proud! If you ever want to see how they're doing, they practice at Ken Bowl. We have a variety of great bowlers. Keep up the good work and let's bring the trophies home!

Top picture- Michael Turner bowling at a tournament. Picture taken by Jerry Thompson.

Middle picture- Stephen Thompson putting in work at practice! Picture taken by Dylan Vaughn.

Bottom picture- All of the Butler bowling team. Picture taken by Danielle Thompson.

B U Z F V D R D U Q W L B O E A H A
 L J X K C M J G S R L D D W V G A A
 S P L S R D G S T V Q L C M M N Z J
 V Z T L G R N N H J R T R M T I N J
 I F S E Q O I O G H E W X J P D X S
 Y Y H G O A K W I N S E X C P D L T
 R O O N S C R D F R O N A Z X E J H
 A E T A G S E A L W L T E L I L W A
 U V C W N N H Y L M U Y N A S S I N
 N H H O X O T J A X T S T Q S F N I
 A Y O N G W U I B A I E B Y C F T H
 J F C S D M L R W R O V B D M A E U
 L R O R I A N A O B N E R D J X R K
 F O L S G N I E N O S N D Z S F M G
 X Z A C L H T Y S U L T V J K G D Z
 B E T O O T R W O U C E U F W C G S
 L N E D O N A E Y C V E R T G H W I
 O N J Q D O M N P V R N P I T R V I

- | | |
|------------------------------|------------------|
| frozen | sledding |
| hot chocolate | snow angels |
| igloo | snowball fights |
| january | snow day |
| martin luther king jr | snow man |
| new year resolutions | twenty seventeen |
| | winter |

Winter Jokes

1. Where do seals go to the movies?
2. What kind of math do snowy owls like?
3. What sits on the bottom of the cold Arctic Ocean and Shakes?
4. What vegetable was forbidden on the ships of Arctic explorers?
5. What do you call a reindeer with no eyes?

- Answers
1. The Dive-In
 2. Owlgebra
 3. A nervous wreck
 4. Leeks
 5. I have no eye deer